

Contents

List of figures	ix
List of tables	xiii
Introduction	xv
What is this book about?	xvi
Acknowledgements	xix
1 Planning an e-learning programme: Part I	1
The learners: characteristics and context	3
Programme content: needs, outcomes, assessment and learning activities	6
Design	11
Conclusions	18
2 Planning an e-learning programme: Part II	21
Develop	21
Pilot	23
Run	25
3 Business planning and marketing	31
Purposes of the business plan	32
Scope of the project	33
Benefits of e-learning	34
Description of the programme	37
Financial forecast	38
The marketing plan	43
4 Analysing learning needs	49
An overview of the training design process	49
Performance analysis	51
Goal analysis	55
People-focused analysis	56
5 Defining and testing learning outcomes	59
Learning outcomes and their benefits	60
How to write effective outcomes	62
Assessing the outcomes	65
6 Making a learning plan	69
Content analysis	69
Designing a modular structure	74

7	Managing assessment	79
	The importance of assessment in e-learning	79
	When assessment takes place	83
	Criteria for evaluating assessment	86
	Portfolio assessment	91
	Effective electronic assesment	91
	Management issues	92
8	Managing learner support	97
	Stages of support	98
	Who can help?	103
	The tutor	106
	Learner expectations	108
	Skills tutors need	111
	Managing tutors	112
9	Managing materials selection and adaptation	117
	Specifying the materials you want	117
	Searching for materials	119
	Evaluating the material	119
	Deciding what changes to make	120
	Preparing a study guide	121
	Planning production of the study guide	122
10	Developing and accessing learning materials	125
	Media selection	125
	Criteria for selecting media	128
	Platforms for e-learning development and delivery	131
	Developing your own materials – the THESPIAN case study	137
	Learning centres and their management	140
11	Managing the e-learning development team	147
	E-learning and more conventional approaches to training	148
	The e-learning development team: roles and skills	150
	In-house development vs. outsourcing	152
	Staff recruitment and selection	154
	Training the e-learning team	155
12	Learning management systems and standards	159
	What is a learning management system?	159
	Managed learning environments	162
	The benefits of learning management systems	165
	The collaborative environment	167
	Choosing a learning management system	168
	Standards in e-learning	168
	Learning objects and metadata	170
	Who is working on standards?	171
	Conclusions	172

Glossary	175
References	179
Index	181